

The online resource tool is a powerful search engine for security professionals.

You can search by entering keywords into the blank field at the top of the page, or by clicking on one of the resource categories or subcategories on this page.

The Basic Word Search feature allows you to search by a word or phrase associated with the material or resource that you are searching for. If you select the Global function then your search will encompass the entire tool. You can search within respective categories by selecting the current category function.

Listed with your search results are options for viewing or downloading relevant materials.

The Find By Category function, presented the main page, allows you to search using pertinent categories such as Resource Type, Security Disciplines, or Communities of Practice. The categories may be broken up into subcategories as well.

The Advanced Search tool allows a more precise search from the outset by allowing you to combine parameters to further refine your search.

The Resource Tool also contains information on many professional organizations so that you can learn more about the organizations, network with other security professionals, or share best practices.

The Help Function provides an overview of the Resource Tool as well as navigation tips, step-by-step search procedures and a tool demonstration.

Any Questions, comments or recommendations can be sent via email to the Resource Tool Manager by clicking on the Contact Us button on the Resource Tool Homepage.

You can access the Resource Tool at any time through the SETA homepage at <http://dssa.dss.mil>.

The Resource Tool is also accessible from within many of the newest online courses. Just click on the resources tab that appears on the screen.
